

Chaplain/Instructor of Religion/Philosophy

Culver-Stockton College

Culver-Stockton College is seeking a full-time Chaplain and Instructor of Religion/Philosophy for immediate employment. The Chaplain reports to the Dean of Student Life and is responsible for the nurturing, development, marketing and implementation of programs and services to enhance the religious and spiritual life on campus. Responsibilities include: coordinate religious services and assemblies (including weekly chapel service); provide pastoral care for the campus community, regardless of faith affiliation [diversity]; develop strong relationships with community churches, especially with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ); organize community service and sustainability projects; engage with students thinking about and preparing for ministry; and work with admissions to identify opportunities to promote the college within churches and church assemblies. The Chaplain will also work with campus organizations and have committee assignments. The successful candidate will serve in a highly collaborative role across academic affairs, enrollment management, and student life to provide vision and leadership for spiritual development on campus. In addition, this person must be qualified to teach at least one course per semester in the academic study of religion and philosophy. This position requires excellent campus ministry skills, diligent management of budgets, and some weekend/evening work. Requirements for the position include a master's degree (doctorate preferred and ordination, preferably in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) or reciprocating denomination.
